Dear NBMBAA Seattle Members and our Community,

As Washington State continues to follow the “Stay Home & Stay Healthy” order, in response to the Coronavirus (COVID-19), the National Black MBA Association, Seattle Chapter has taken steps to continue providing value to our Members and our Community. Like our national partners, we immediately postponed all in-person and upcoming engagements and activities until further notice, to ensure the safety of our members, partners, family, and broader community.

As we navigate this time together, our goal is to increase our social media presence and to keep everyone engaged and informed, with access to valuable resources. No matter where you are in your life’s journey, we want to hear from you; and we will be here for each other to provide the best resources for Professionals, Entrepreneurs and Parents. Now, more than ever, a pipeline of reliable and actionable information combined with a concerted effort to stay connected is how we'll get through this and emerge a stronger community.

Please take care of yourselves during this challenging time. If you have questions, please do not hesitate to reach out to us at seattleblackmba@live.com or President@seattleblackmba.org. We thank you for your continued support, and we look forward to continuing to serve our members and the Greater Seattle community.

Sincerely,

Traci Harrell
President, National Black MBA Association, Seattle Chapter

To quote the state Department of Health, “Sharing accurate information during a time of heightened concern is one of the best things we can do to keep rumors and misinformation from spreading.”

- The Washington State Department of Health’s website is the place to go for the best local information about COVID-19 in Washington state.
- If you have questions or concerns related to your health, call the state Department of Health at 800-525-0127, and press #.
- The CDC website is an excellent source of information, including guidelines for businesses.
- The World Health Organization (WHO) has a mythbusters website with advice for the public.
- The Washington State Department of Social and Health Services (DSHS) website has information about community programs and eligibility.
- The Washington Department of Financial Institutions has a list of financial resources for consumers impacted by COVID-19.
- A comprehensive list of state resources is available on the governor's coronavirus page.